

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A communication device has a padding unit which adds data to an asynchronous packet to form an integer multiple of the block length, an encryption unit which encrypts the added asynchronous packet and a synchronous packet, and a transmitting unit which transmits the encrypted padded asynchronous packet and the encrypted synchronous packet.